The Globe & Laurel magazine is the journal of Britain’s elite Royal Marine Commandos and is read the world over by serving and former members of the Corps, as well as international forces and government agencies.

Our full-colour publication is the definitive record of all that the Royal Marines are involved in around the globe and is read by all ranks and their families, keeping the wider Corps Family closely involved in our activities. It serves as a vital link to our Marine Cadet and Sea Cadet units and promotes a keen interest in the Corps of tomorrow and is indispensable in future recruiting.

A targeted global circulation of over 10,500 issues are being read bi-monthly by Royal Marines, Royal Navy, associated services, retired members and the wider Corps Family, attracting a potential readership of approx 120,000 worldwide.
